Accellis Opens New Office's Doors

Cleveland, OH (March 15, 2006) – Accellis Technology Group, a legal technology services and consulting firm, just opened the doors to a new office on March 3, 2006. The newly designed office is located in Garfield Heights, OH, on Transportation Boulevard - just off of interstate 480. It includes a classroom for software training classes, an expanded data center and more office space for the growing company's employees. Accellis' move from Chagrin Falls, OH is intended to make it quick and easy for the company's consultants to reach lawyers and financial advisors throughout the region and provide them with even better service.

The company's employees recently unpacked their belongings at the new workplace and are enjoying the expanded space and central location. The space has been specifically designed to allow for optimal team interaction and project management. Since the spring of 2005, Accellis added several senior legal technology consultants, networking service consultants, an accounting consultant and a marketing manager.

The company's president, Joseph Marquette, recognized that it was the right time for the move. Accellis' growth in 2005 was substantial and Marquette feels that the move encourages the company's steady progress. "The truth is that we were at capacity with our old space and needed to make a change. When we looked at our options, we quickly realized that we would be better able to respond to our client's requests if we were more centrally located. The new offices at Overlook Point give us the ability to improve service, employee retention and hopefully long-term profitability."

Mark Abood of Overlook Pointe said, "After Mr. Marquette toured the building, he concluded that no other space could provide the visibility, accessibility and convenience we had to offer. We are truly excited to be a part of Accellis' growth and look forward to a long and successful relationship."

Taking advantage of the rising increase in legal technology utilization amongst small to mid-sized law firms, Accellis built a business that provides a complete range of technology solutions for businesses that were previously unable to get such specialized services. Mr. Marquette said, "The technology needs of a law firm are unlike that of most other businesses. Our goal is to present our clients with the solutions that can really help them improve their practice and profitability."
