Dear Joe:

We have been working with your company for about four years now. In this time, we have all witnessed great improvements in productivity and business growth. A great deal of this credit is due to your team and their personalized approach to resolving and supporting our office. They've made it so easy to understand the changes in technology and have done an excellent job of simplifying our workday.

Working with Accellis has made a big difference in how we were able to move from a very basic technology environment to a much more efficient organization that takes advantage of the technologies available to us. You've taken care of everything—the computers and servers as well as the software products. And your people are so professional. They've often worked after-hours or over the weekend just to make sure we were not interrupted during the normal workday. Thanks again for the great work.

Sincerely,

Gretchen L. Oleski
